The Yellow House (ARTS COUNCIL SHOWDOWN)

Category Overview

The Yellow House was Van Gogh's singular retreat from the world; a haven where he could retreat to his singular passion. The Yellow House is Van Gogh's life at its most peaceful, and his painting encapsulates that. Similarly, The Yellow House is a sanctuary for every artist, a place where every art can grow and thrive. Art, literature, drama, music, media—every artist is challenged in their respective art in one singular category.

The Yellow House is a compulsory category, yet only one team per institution is allowed to compete in this interdisciplinary competition. Every school is invited to send their best of the best, their art council, to participate in the showdown. In the end, the best artists in every art will rise to the top. Every round in The Yellow House is secret, simple as that. The challengers will find out about the specifics of the category on the day of Muse.
